INTRODUCTION

With the beginning of the 1979-80 fiscal year, the South Carolina Advisory Council on Vocational and Technical Education entered the eleventh year of operation. The highlights and summary data for the first ten years was documented in the Annual Report for 1979-80.

The 1979-80 year was one of the more active years for the South Carolina Advisory Council. Attendance at the regular Council meetings was excellent. The Council addressed several issues during the year and overall the Council had input to many decisions affecting vocational education and technical education. Some of the highlights and major activities are briefly mentioned here:

- State commitment to the role of the State Advisory Council, through a regular State appropriation of funds for the Council operation.
- Completion of and dissemination of the Council's Evaluation Report for 1979.
- Continuing emphasis on articulation of related programs between vocational education and technical education.
- Partial sponsorship of the second annual conference of technical education presidents and vocational center directors.
- Establishment of a state-wide clearing house of information on articulation.
- A State-wide Public Meeting to secure the views and input from the public.
- Involvement in the issues of State legislation affecting vocational education.
- A continuing inquiry into a proposed plan and potential actions affecting the delivery system for licensed practical nurses.
- Participation in and an excellent report from a federal program audit - referred to as a MERC-Q.
- Conducting several evaluation visits by the Council to Technical Colleges and area Vocational Education Centers.

In addition, there was constant but more routine activity pertaining to Council and committee meetings and the support of the Council.

AUTHORITY

Federal legislation specifies that for any state to be eligible to receive federal funds for vocational education, in addition to many other requirements, the state must "establish a State Advisory Council, which shall be appointed by the Governor..." (Sec. 105 (a) of P.L. 90-576.) This requirement has remained essentially unchanged since enactment of the Vocational Education Amendments of 1968 (P.L. 90-576). The State Advisory Council on Vocational and Technical Education fulfills this requirement and thus assists in keeping South Carolina eligible for the federal funds for Vocational Education which are used mainly for vocational education but also for technical education.

State authority for the continuation and operation of the State Advisory Council during 1979-80 is derived from the Office of the Governor. On April 6, 1979, Governor Richard W. Riley issued Executive Order No. 79-12. This Executive Order clarified that the Council should be advisory to the State Board of Education and to the State Board for Technical and Comprehensive Education. In addition, the Executive Order continued the Council "for other purposes as may be advisable to improve vocational and technical education in particular."

COUNCIL MEMBER INVOLVEMENT

Membership

There were twenty-two (22) members on the State Advisory Council during 1979-80. Since members of the Council are appointed by the Governor to three year terms unless there is a vacancy, most of the members were continuing their membership from the previous year.

Five new members were appointed and certified to begin their membership on July 1, 1979. These were:

Dr. Joe Hopkins

Mrs. Virginia Priester

Miss Annette Gallman

Mrs. Lucille Whipper

Mr. Hugh Chastain.

Two other members whose terms had expired at the end of the previous year - Mr. Frank Godfrey and Mr. Frank Hart - were re-appointed to new three year terms of membership.

Late in November of 1979, Mr. B. Frank Godfrey passed away. Mr. Godfrey was the remaining charter member of the State Advisory Council and was serving on the Executive Committee at the time of his demise. This was the loss of a fine gentleman who was an enthusiastic supporter of vocational and technical education.

The absence of Mr. Godfrey created a vacancy on the Council, and on March 12, 1980, Governor Richard W. Riley appointed Mr. Guy E. Blackwell as a member of the Council. Mr. Blackwell's appointment was from March 12, 1980, until June 30, 1982, the time remaining on Mr. Godfrey's appointment. While the list that follows shows twenty-three (23) persons, there were only twenty-two (22) members at any time.

Mrs. Lucille Whipper	Charleston	14	1982

Note: * indicates served part of year.

Numbers refer to the category number in federal act (94-482).

All terms expire June 30 of the designated year.

Committees

The Council members elected the Chairman, Vice-Chairman, and an additional member to the Executive Committee from among the members. At the July 24, 1979 meeting the members elected Mr. Martin Black as Chairman, Mr. Frank Hart as Vice-Chairman, and Dr. Joe Hopkins was elected as at-large member to the Executive Committee. The fourth member of the Executive Committee is designated by the By-Laws as the most recent past Chairman. Mr.

Godfrey fulfilled this assignment until the end of November, and upon his demise, the honor reverted to Mrs. Helen Stuart.

All other standing and ad hoc committees are appointed by the Council Chairman with the advice and consent of the Executive Committee. The list of standing and ad hoc committees during 1979-80 is listed below.

Any success the State Advisory Council on Vocational and Technical Education may have in effecting desirable changes is due to the members. To be totally informed they must make a deliberate effort to investigate and inquire, and consensus can only be reached through democratic discussions and deliberations. Since the Council is not a policy approving board but instead is an advising Council, the members are called on to donate their time for a variety of activities.

During the 1979-80 year the twenty-two (22) members donated at least 288 days of their time - a remarkable contribution of time by well qualified persons to the concept of improvement of vocational and technical education.

Council members participated in a variety of activities to account for the almost 300 (288) days of contributed time. In addition to the seven meetings, the members participated on four evaluation visits to vocational or technical education institutions, observed during State Department of Education evaluation visits, conducted numerous committee meetings, and joined in the discussions of State, Regional and National meetings. See Appendix I for additional pertinent information. Council meetings were well attended, with the seven (7) Council meetings having approximately eighty-two percent (82%) of the members present. Few groups of this size, with members in responsible positions, can boast of such high participation.

1979-80 Council Meetings

The State Advisory Council held seven (7) regular meetings during 1979-80, all of them in the Columbia area. Due to reasons of efficiency, the Council holds the meetings in commercial facilities, finding this considerably more economical than paying rental on space adequate for a group of this size. A list of the Council meetings during 1979-80 is given as Appendix II of this report.

OFFICE AND STAFF

The State Advisory Council stands as a separate agency within State Government, being advisory to but not a part of any of the agencies responsible for vocational and technical type education. The State Treasurer serves as the Council's fiscal agent, and the office of the Council is responsible for all tasks, from budgeting to personnel practices, of any other state agency.

Office space is maintained in a State-owned facility at 2221 Devine Street, which the Council pays for with the funds available for the Council's operation. The mailing address for the Council is:

2221 Devine Street
Suite 420
Columbia, S.C. 29205.
Telephone (803) 758-3038

Again in 1979-80 there were no changes in the staff for the Council. The Council was in agreement with the Executive Director that the citizens are entitled to economical government and that increases in number of State Employees should be avoided unless absolutely necessary.

Throughout 1979-80 the Council staff consisted of:

Executive Director—	Dr. Robert H. White
Executive Assistant —	Mr. Gregory Black
Secretary—	Mrs. Elizabeth "Lib" Shealy.

During 1979-80, the Council conducted evaluation site visits to two school districts, with two vocational centers, and two technical colleges. The visits were typically two and one half to three days in length, and were conducted by teams composed of eight to ten persons. The usual site visit found four to five Council members spending the entire available time observing and visiting with administrators, teachers and students.

A report of the observations and conclusions from each visit was produced and returned to the local program administrator. More importantly, the written reports of the several visits during the year were utilized by the Council's evaluation committee to provide an important part of the basic information for the Evaluation Report produced by the Council.

BUDGET

For the first decade of existence of the State Advisory Council, with the exception of a single one-time grant of $15,000 of state funds, the Council was able to operate successfully on the available federal funds. Although federal funds are available annually for the operation of the Council, these funds consistently are not available until near the end of the first quarter of the year, or some 90 to 150 days after July 1 each year. Fortunately, there are provisions to carry forward federal funds not expended, and these are used to meet expenses at the beginning of each fiscal year.

Since 1977, the amount of federal funds available to carry forward had been consistently decreasing as the obligatory expenses exceeded the allocation. Consequently, the Council exercised prudent judgement and requested a small appropriation of State funds for 1979-80. The General Assembly granted this request and 1979-80 was the first year that the Council was able to utilize both State and Federal funds to support the work of the Council. The availability of State funds did prevent a fiscal crisis that would have occurred if the Council only had federal funds during the year.

No basic changes were made during the year as a result of the State funds. Although the detail is given in Appendix III, salaries accounted for 55.3 percent of expenditures versus 55.7 for 1978-79, and Council members per diem and travel accounted for 15.5 percent versus 14 percent for the previous (78-79) year. All other categories of expenditures also deviated very little. See Appendix III of this report and page 20 of the Council's previous annual report for detail.

ACTIVITIES

The primary role of the State Advisory Council on Vocational and Technical Education is to be advisory to the State Board of Education on Vocational Education matters, and to be advisory to the State Board for Technical and Comprehensive Education. Executive Order Number 79-12, moreover, includes the clause "and for other purposes as may be advisable to improve vocational and technical education." The collective judgement of the Council deems the Council to have a broad mission of advocacy for vocational and technical education and for improvements in these programs.

Many factors and many groups affect the decisions that determine the availability and quality of technical and vocational education. Having no established parameters to limit their activities, the Council diligently worked to improve vocational and technical education during 1979-80 - both the quality of programs and the availability of programs.

Evaluation of Local Programs - Site Visits

The Act (P.L. 94-482) requires the Council to "evaluate vocational education programs, services, and activities assisted under this Act, and (to) publish and distribute the results thereof." (Sec. 105. (d) (2)).

A few years prior, the Council determined that to obtain adequate and realistic knowledge of vocational and technical education programs it would be necessary to go and visit some of the programs. This proved to be of considerable value, even if time consuming and costly. Since the site visits of prior years had provided valuable information, the Council continued this activity in 1979-80.

During 1979-80, the Council conducted evaluation site visits to two school districts with area vocational centers, and to two technical colleges. The visits were typically two and one half to three days in length, and were conducted by teams composed of eight to ten persons. The usual site visit found four to five Council members spending the entire available time observing and visiting with administrators, teachers and students.

A report of the observations and conclusions from each visit was produced and returned to the local program administrator. More importantly, the written reports of the several visits during the year were utilized by the Council's evaluation committee to provide an important part of the basic information for the Evaluation Report produced by the Council.

Evaluation Report

One of the few specific duties required of the Council in the federal Act is to "prepare and submit to the (U.S.) Commissioner and to the National Advisory Council... through the State board, an annual evaluation report...." During 1979-80, the Council produced and published an Evaluation Report of Vocational Education and Technical Education in South Carolina for the 1978-79 year. This report was titled "Evaluation Digest - 1978/1979."

The Evaluation Report was presented to Governor Riley, to the State Board of Education, to the State Board for Technical and Comprehensive Education, and to the State Occupational Informational Coordinating Committee (SCOICC). Copies were also distributed to a large number of educational and legislative leaders in the State.

The Evaluation Report contained recommendations and commendations to the three Boards cited in the preceding paragraph. Each of the two Boards and the SCOICC Committee were attentive and apparently appreciative of the report and the applicable commendations and recommendations.

Articulation

During the previous year, the Council was successful in helping create a situation where the vocational education directors and technical college presidents could meet and work cooperatively for the benefit of students and taxpayers. It was decided, in concert with several persons, that it would be advantageous to have a second meeting of these two groups of educational leaders during October, 1979.

On October 18 - 20, 1979, the Council was pleased to be involved with the second articulation conference at Santee. Jointly sponsored by the Office of Vocational Education, State Department of Education; the staff of the State Board for Technical and Comprehensive Education; and the State Council, the meeting was very successful. The real credit for the success was due to the participation and cooperation of the vocational directors and technical college presidents who came to the conference and worked with a cooperative spirit. The Council staff developed materials and helped to conduct the conference. Information obtained at that meeting provided the basis of information to establish the Clearinghouse on Articulation.

Articulation Clearinghouse Function

At the first state-wide articulation conference in 1978-79, the directors and presidents recognized the possibility of redundancy as institutions or instructors in several areas of the State developed materials to facilitate the articulation effort. At that time, they requested that some agency - possibly the State Advisory Council - provide a clearinghouse function. Rather than having to develop materials that had been already developed elsewhere, copies of pertinent material could be shared and only revised as necessary, saving much time, effort and expense.

During the early part of the 1979-80 year, the Council authorized the staff to proceed with this function. Information was gathered prior to and particularly during the Santee Articulation Conference in October of 1979 to provide this data base through the Advisory Council office. Now any technical college or vocational center that desires to develop an articulation agreement or instructional outlines can obtain the name of someone who has already done this and can obtain copies.

During the Spring of 1980, a newsletter was developed and distributed to all of the technical colleges and area vocational education centers. This newsletter served as a notice of the availability of this service and also disseminated information on completed materials that might be useful to others.

Public Meeting

The federal Act requires the Council to conduct "not less than one public meeting each year at which the public is given an opportunity to express views concerning the vocational education program of the State" (P.L. 94-482, Sec. 105 (c) ). This is also consistent with the S.C. Freedom of Information Act that provides that "every meeting of all public bodies shall be open to the public..." (Sec. 7).

The State Advisory Council has always operated under the premise that all meetings of the Council are open to the public. To comply not only with the specifics but also the intent of the Acts, one Council meeting each year is declared to be a 'public meeting', and extra effort is made to obtain public comments.

The March 13, 1980 Council meeting was the 'public meeting' for 1980. Extra time on the morning portion of the March 13 agenda was given to public comments, and the public was given ample opportunity to express their concerns and opinions. These comments were seriously considered by the Council.

Nursing Education

Through the Summer and Fall of 1979, the Commission on Higher Education was diligently working to develop a mandated Master Plan for Higher Education. As the proposed Master Plan began to take form, it became apparent that one section of the Plan addressed the entire spectrum of nursing education. This plan, when approved by the Commission on Higher Education (CHE) and if accepted in that form by the General Assembly, would provide basic policy reference during the next several years.

Since Licensed Practical Nurses (LPN) are prepared in several settings in the State including technical colleges and in vocational education programs, the Council has always considered LPN programs to be a viable part of vocational education. It was with interest and concern that the Council read of changes proposed for nursing education in the draft version of the CHE Master Plan that promised significant changes for LPN programs.

The Council carefully studied the initial draft of the CHE Master Plan, and disagreed with a proposed recommendation that high school graduation should be the minimal requirement for entry into any nurse education program. A position paper was developed by the Council and submitted to the CHE, expressing this opposition but agreeing to other elements of the proposed plan. In addition, the Council expressed this position and rationale to the public media.

When the final draft of the CHE Master Plan was submitted to the General Assembly, the objectionable recommendation pertaining to the education of L.P. Nurses had been deleted. Therefore, a potentially serious and disruptive policy statement relative to LPN programs had been removed.

Vocational Education Legislation

In addition to the regular appropriations process by the General Assembly for the various agencies and political subdivisions, there were at least three legislative items that surfaced during the 1979-80 year. The Council does not normally become involved in the legislative process. The Council does, however, provide a source of informed and knowledgeable persons whose opinions are respected.

Equipment Replacement

In recent years the Council had become increasingly concerned that the equipment used for instruction in vocational and technical education was becoming more and more obsolete. In the 1978-79 Evaluation report, there was a specific recommendation to the State Board of Education and State Board for Technical and Comprehensive Education that each Board should develop a plan and take the first steps to replace obsolescent and worn-out equipment.

The State Board of Education, late in the 1979-80 year, was successful in having a request for State Bond money be approved to begin the orderly replacement of instructional equipment. The State Board for Technical and Comprehensive Education has also developed a plan to begin updating obsolete equipment.

Agricultural Education

One of the more controversial bills concerning vocational education was the vocational agriculture bill (S.784). Due to the implications from the bill for other vocational education programs, there was keen interest in the passage of this bill by teachers of other vocational subjects and by administrators.

The Council was present at three Senate Committee hearings on the bill, and it was the topic of discussion at several Council meetings. The bill was finally enacted in a compromise form late in the 1980 legislative session. The Act, as passed, appeared to be acceptable to the administration in vocational education and also was acceptable to the Council.

Local Advisory Committees

The Council also followed the progress of Senate Bill 858, a bill to resolve apparent duplication of local advisory committees for vocational education centers. The legislative committee of the Council studied this bill, but took no official action due to differing possible interpretations of the bill as offered and in final form.

Federal Program Audit

The State Council was subject to careful scrutiny during 1979-80 as a part of the overall vocational education system. A Management Evaluation Review for Compliance and Quality (MERC-Q) team was brought into South Carolina in January to conduct a program audit. Since the Council utilizes federal vocational education funds, part of the team was assigned to scrutinize the operation of the State

Advisory Council for the 1978-79 year, which was the year under review.

The Council was pleased to receive a report from the MERC-Q Team that there were no out of compliance items for the State Advisory Council.

National Meetings

The Council was represented by members and/or the Executive Director at a number of regional or national meetings during the year. At a meeting in October at Myrtle Beach, the Executive Director was elected to serve out the remaining term as Vice-President for the Southern Region of the National Association of Executive Directors of State Advisory Councils on Vocational Education. This election was for the period from October until June of 1980. At the National and State Advisory Councils National meeting in Washington, D.C., in May, the Executive Director was re-elected to serve as Chairman for the Southern Region from July 1, 1980 to June 30, 1981. The position remained the same, while the change from Vice-President to Chairman of the Southern Region reflected an association organizational change.

Regional or national meetings that the Council participated in included the following:

Southern Regional Meeting of State Advisory Councils	Myrtle Beach	October 1979
American Vocational Association National Convention	Anaheim, Ca.	December 1979
Regional Hearings on Vocational Education in Corrections	Raleigh, N.C.	March 1980
Southern Regional Meeting on Vocational Education by the U.S. Office of Education	Biloxi, Miss.	October 1979
Joint Meeting of the National and State Advisory Councils on Vocational Education	Washington, D.C.	May 1980
National Association of Vocational and Technical Education Communicators (NAVTEC)	Miami, Florida	May 1980

Participation in national and regional meetings provided an opportunity for the Council to become aware of developments in other states and regions. It contributed greatly to the knowledge of the Council members and staff and thus helped to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the Council.

Vocational Media Center

The Council was well into the 1979-80 year when it found that apparently the Vocational Education Media Center at Clemson University was to be discontinued. The Council was concerned, since the Media Center was known for the consistently high-quality instructional materials produced there.

The Council gave considerable time to a discussion of the Media Center and explored the topic for several months. Several meetings were called by a committee to discuss the circumstances, although no satisfactory resolution had been found by the end of the year. At the end of the fiscal year it appeared the contractual arrangements between the Department of Education and Clemson University would terminate during the Fall of 1980. If that happened the Media Center would be closed and the services provided through some other means.

SUMMARY

The 1979-80 year was a good year for the State Advisory Council under the able leadership of Chairman Black who enjoyed a high level of participation by the other Council members. The Council was able to deal with a considerable number of issues affecting technical and vocational education. The Council was not always successful in having issues resolved as it would have liked, but was successful in having an effective voice.

This report does not attempt to include all of the activities or areas of inquiry during the year. Important functions were omitted in the interest of brevity. All of these, such as participation in the development of the State Plan for Vocational Education, comments on the annual CETA Report, and Council member participation in regional hearings on vocational education in corrections institutions, were also important. The authority and responsibilities given to the Council provides sufficient latitude so that the Council can deal with the issues that appear most important. While some functions are required annually, other activities and concerns change from year to year.

Along with the satisfaction that Council members obtained from their effort, there were also frustrations. Some of the frustrations resulted from being in an advisory capacity rather than a policy making role and thus were natural and inevitable. Others derived from the continual changes in society and in federal and State government. An increasing time span and complexity in the State budgetary process affected not only this Council but others in the educational arena. There was also more and more complexity in State government that required more effort and clerical time by each agency to assure compliance. Also, the effect of inflation on state agency and educational institution budgets was a very real concern but one without any apparent solution.

The Council carried forward to 1980-81 an air of optimism and many of the same concerns addressed during 1979-80. At the close of 1979-80, the optimism was most noticable in the areas of articulation between vocational and technical education, high quality programs of vocational and technical education, and efficient management of occupational type educational programs. Although other issues will undoubtedly arise during the next year, the question of declining vocational education enrollments coinciding with the changes under the Educational Finance Act of 1977 (EFA-77) remained for more scrutiny. The Council also retained a keen interest in any requirements affecting the L.P.N. (nursing) programs.
